Northern General Hospital Take Delivery Of New Colbus 6000 Blood Sampling Machine

Specialised Movers have just assisted with the specialist delivery of a brand new blood sampling machine to Sheffield's Northern General Hospital.

This machine will replace the currently out-dated equipment, and bring the Northern General Hospital into top flight for blood testing.

The machine came in multi parts from Japan, and was supplied and commissioned by Roache electronics.

Specialised Movers have provided access and final placement solutions for this type of equipment all over the U.K., and can boast a 100% success rate in site deployment. We have to be extremely careful with delicate equipment of this type because the slightest damage would render the equipment useless and because of the high value of the equipment there is no stock component to replace a damaged machine, meaning that the parts would have to be re-ordered from Japan with lengthy lead times.

Because of this "100% dedication to care" is essential, and that is why Britannia Bradshaws feel confident in the use of Specialised Movers' technical lifting and handling skills to successfully undertake such a specialised moving contract.
